

SQUARE DEAL FOR GAMBLERS

CRIMINAL COURT JURIES MEETING OUT DELAYED JUSTICE.

Not a Gambler Has Escaped—Sam Anderson Fined $250 for Being in Policy Business—Jurors Make Quick Work of Them.

"We're down to 'em' and the bets on the 'turn' are all one way," said the disgraced gambler in a sepulchral tone of voice, as he glanced reproachfully at the jury in Judge Wofford's court. "Nobody 'copped' their bets this deal, and the players of the 'double out' system beat the bank regularly. The dealer's fingers tremble and there is a suspicious moisture in the look of his eyes. Everybody beats the game. It looks like a case of 'lights out' for Findley."

They are grinding a gambling grist over in the criminal court. The fingers of justice have the crap and policy evil by the throat and the gasp of strangulation can be heard above the shrill-voiced, half-demented cry of "guilty." Uncorrupted juries are at work.

Not a gambler has escaped thus far. When a criminal court jury returned a verdict of guilty against Sam Anderson, after five minutes' deliberation yesterday, the little coterie of indicted gamblers who were present looked uneasily at the judge and scanned the faces of the jurors. Usually, it was the dawn of a new order of things in the criminal court. No court loungers on the present jury. The taxpayers are in the jury box.

Anderson was probably the only gambler who received the verdict and sentence of $250 fine with a show of outward composure. He knew that no steel bars yawned for him.

It is said that Anderson is the man who turned the wheel that contained Ed Findley's policy number.

And when Ed Findley asked him what he was going to do about getting an appeal bond it was natural that Anderson should reply:

"I ain't going to do anything."

Said in a quiet tone, a world of meaning lurked in the utterance.

The fine, amounting to $250, was paid and Anderson walked out of the jail building a free man.

But Findley is still in a cell, and so is Paul, Gus Baughman has been fined; Booth Baughman ditto. Other cases are pending against them. Florence has fled and his bond of $1,000 was forfeited yesterday. Arthur Morrison Moses is missing. He is said to be somewhere in the mountains, not for hygienic purposes alone. The scene of operations has been transferred from the old Times building, the old rear of Alderman Fenderson's saloon, to the criminal court.

Only misdemeanor cases have been tried thus far. The real work will begin when the felony cases are taken up.

DATED THEIR LICENSES BACK.

Peculiar Business Methods of the County License Inspector—Rare Privileges to Saloon Men.

When the case against Dick Stone for selling liquor without a license was called for trial in Justice Walls' court yesterday morning, a change of venue was taken to Justice Krueger. Stone was arrested March 15 by County License Inspector H. H. Stukenberg for selling whiskey in his saloon on Grand avenue after his license had been revoked by the police commissioners. County License Inspector Stukenberg has presented a peculiar phase of the county's methods of transacting its business. Saloonkeepers were allowed to take out licenses and then to produce an installment plan. The county court after a long time ordered a stop put to the practice. Then the license inspectors were ordered to collect money that should have been in the treasury without legal procedure, or at least the money should have been collected by the law by selling liquor without a license. Deputy constables arrested a number of saloon men, who gave bonds for their appearance, and then hurried to take out licenses. When the cases against them were called they showed their licenses and were released on the order of the license inspector. The licenses were dated back so as to show a period when liquor had been sold without official permission.

Justice Walls, before whom a number of the saloonkeepers had been arraigned and discharged, was in doubt about the regularity of the proceedings and called upon Prosecutor Lowe for an explanation. The prosecutor said that if liquor had been sold without license the men were guilty of violating the law and should be fined. The same as other offenders. The object of the criminal law is not to make it a debt-collecting branch of the judiciary, but to make it probable that the saloon men who have not paid their licenses will be fined for violating the law and not allowed to continue simply by taking out a license for the period they were running without license.

Judge Stone gives the county court's surprise of the case after this fashion:

"I see Prosecutor Lowe says he is surprised that the county court is causing the arrest of saloonkeepers for non-payment of license money. The surprise comes from the fact that the saloonkeepers do not know where the surprise comes from. When the prosecutor ought to take action and does not, the court has the duty of punishing. Surprise indeed! It is the duty of the prosecutor, not the court, to cause these arrests, and it is the duty of the court to punish the saloonkeepers for selling liquor without a license."

License Inspector Stukenberg was before the court yesterday and reported considerable success in collecting dramshop licenses after the county court authorized the arrest of delinquent saloonkeepers.

COUNTY COURT'S ECONOMY.

Makes Needless Change in the Independence Court House to Gratify a Few Clerks.

The report of the grand jury for the March term of the criminal court was filed with the county court at Independence yesterday, as the grand jury authorized. The reason of this was set out in the report, and was due to the fact that the grand jurors that the recommendations made should not be misunderstood by the court. In this report the grand jury advised the court place a telephone at the county jail. The court has objected to this, raising the plea of economy. It is not necessary to carry out the recommendation. Following on the heels of the claim that it was too expensive to maintain a telephone at the jail, the court set out to expend several hundred dollars in the purchase of a new building in a needless change of offices at the Independence court house. No one has ever been able to discover the reason for the change. Records are to be moved from a fireproof building to the old court house, which is not fireproof. The county superintendent was moved to the county clerk's quarters, and the women will have to climb two flights of stairs to get to the office, whereas before it was on the ground floor. A big kitchen, sufficiently enough expensive and ornate to grace an opera house, has been run through a small courtroom at a great expense, and, through the whole, taxpayers have wondered where the advantage comes in. It is estimated that the change will cost $10,000. It was charged that the push in the county clerk's office was responsible for the fact that some of the clerks do not care to have an upstairs office. The clerks say it is on the court, and vice versa, who is claiming responsibility for fattening the scheme which extracted money out of the county treasury and put it in the pockets of a few clerks. The penny wise policy relative to the change in the county jail, and the prodigious expenditure at the court house, is bothering the minds of many.

ASSAULTED HIS SUCCESSOR.

John Doolin, Discharged During the Armour Strike, Arrested on a Second Charge.

John Doolin was arraigned before Justice Krueger yesterday morning, charged with assaulting E. R. Halsted with intent to kill. He pleaded not guilty and was committed to jail until to-day to await preliminary examination. Halsted charges that Doolin assaulted him with an iron bar shortly after 6 o'clock on the morning of November 8. He says he succeeded in getting Doolin out of the morning named he claims that Doolin, out of jealousy, attempted to kill him. Since the

NEW EXECUTOR TO BE NAMED.

Contestants of the Will of the Late Charles G. Hopkins Ask That T. M. Barr Be Deposed.

Probate Judge Guinnott will, next Saturday, appoint an executor for the estate of the late Charles G. Hopkins, whose will is being contested by his sister, Hopkins, who was a resident of Kansas City for many years, left an estate valued at about $50,000. The bulk of it going to Thomas M. Barr, his private secretary, and Miss Elizabeth Calvert, his housekeeper, his relative being cut out with each $25,000. The law provides that when a will is contested the executor, if he is a beneficiary under the will, shall be removed on petition of the contestants.

Lawyers for the contestants yesterday argued for a new executor and Judge Guinnott gave them until next Saturday to decide upon a successor to Barr.

William Miller Asks $10,000 Damages for a Bolt Driven Into His Head by a Fellow Workman.

While William T. Miller was working underground in the course of constructing a tank in the course of the inside of the tank drove a bolt through the bottom. The bolt struck Miller in the head, fracturing his skull. Yesterday he sued the William Garver Tank Company, for whom he was employed, for $10,000 damages, alleging that the workman who drove the bolt was unskilled.

COMPROMISES WITH THE LAW.

Tim Delougherty Will Plead Guilty to Highway Robbery Charges for Light Punishment.

Tim Delougherty, the North end tough, has kindly consented to plead guilty to two charges of highway robbery against him in consideration that he shall be given two years for each offense. Delougherty was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary last week for highway robbery, and the state had ironed cases against him on the other two charges. The law places the lowest sentence for this offense at five years in the penitentiary.

COUNTY LOSES MONEY ON LOANS.

The county court yesterday instructed the county counselor to investigate surties on loans made by the county in which the county has had to sell the mortgaged property for foreclosure. The county has met with considerable loss in the sale of the property sold under a county mortgage brought less than the mortgage.

Judge Phillips' Vacation at an End.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

Miss Alice Nielson, of Kansas City, who has been winning laurels with the Bostonians, has made a particularly big hit in the new opera, "The Serenade," produced in New York last week. The Herald says of her:

"Miss Alice Nielson, who made quite a hit with the Bostonians last Monday in 'The Serenade,' is comparatively unknown here. She is a native of Tennessee, born in Nashville, and received her musical education at home and in Kansas City, where she occupied a church position. Her stage experience was gained at the Tivoli, San Francisco, the home of popular priced light opera on the Pacific coast, and where she now occupies a church position. In this school Miss Nielson acquired an extensive repertoire of nearly fifty operas. Her work made a favorable impression on Messrs. Barnabee and MacDonald, she was immediately engaged for unimportant roles in their new production, 'The Serenade,' a slight and girlish figure, an unaffected manner, and a voice of sympathetic quality and flexibility, she has made a hit with a rush when 'The Serenade' was produced.

"If her head is not turned by the lavish compliments bestowed upon her, and she determines to study diligently, she may, in the near future, make the grand opera stage. The only difficulty in the way of the greater success of gifted young artists is the common one of vanity. They are satisfied with the applause of the hardy critical audiences that gather for the performance of the kind of opera that the triumphs of the moment barter a higher career that they might have enjoyed had they taken art more seriously and patiently.

Basco & Roberts' specialty company will give a matinee at the Ninth Street this afternoon.

Tickets are on sale at all the music stores for the Godowsky recital, which will be given at Lyceum hall next Monday night. The demand has been large and it is likely that the great pianist will be greeted with a large audience on the occasion of his first appearance in this city.

"Too Much Johnson," which comes to the Grand next week, is said to possess a charm that cannot be adequately explained, but everyone who witnesses the performance experiences the same delirium. The tangled web, woven by the first prevarication of William Gillette's hero, forms an interesting problem as the piece progresses, for he seems to be getting deeper and deeper into the mire. The plot is a masterpiece of the audience is aroused to a high pitch, and when he finally clears himself there is a feeling of consternation.

The most successful of all the "Uncle Tom" shows before the public, Sauter and Martin's organization, will be seen at the Ninth Street the coming week.

LOOKING FOR A BUILDING.

Special Committee of Manufacturers Searching for a Suitable Place for Home Products Show.

The special committee appointed to take charge of the preliminary work relative to the forthcoming exhibition of home products has decided to recommend to the board of trade the securing of a suitable building for the exhibition is one that has occupied much time of the committee. The building, at 121 Main street, where the poultry show was held, and the building in which the Studebaker concern is located have been discussed. The plan is to get it down town as far as possible, but there is also a great desire to get it all on one floor, if possible.

If either of these buildings are taken the approximate rate to be charged exhibitors will be something like $2.50 per front foot for space. The plan of trying to put the old Priests of Pallas den in shape and hold the show there has been mentioned by outsiders. In order to get possession of the facts concerning the building, the committee composed of D. W. Rider, H. A. Cain, A. M. Egbert, L. J. Long, J. J. Davenport and E. H. Witte, has decided to investigate the building of the city and report to the general meeting of manufacturers Thursday evening and recommend one building.

There are 30 manufacturers in the city, and each has been invited to take part and attend the meeting Thursday evening and get the first word started in the right way. All of them have been invited to take space and share the benefits of the home spirit that the meeting will inculcate.

LIKE LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

Mad Scramble of Applicants for Government Jobs—Many Thousands Try, but Few Are Chosen.

A class of 100 people, ambitious to serve the government, will meet the civil service commission in the high school building at 6 o'clock this morning. The examination is for departmental and Indian service in all of the grades. To-morrow a class of 150 will meet the same commission in an examination for the railway mail service. The classes are the largest ever examined in Kansas City and it was necessary to get the high school building to have space enough to handle the class.

The mad scramble for a place in the government service is no greater in Kansas City than at other places, and thousands of applicants try and try again to win a coveted appointment. Of the 250 who will be examined here, probably less than half a dozen will ever get further than to have their names placed on the eligible list. A few of the ones who make high average grades may ultimately get appointments, but it will be labor lost to the masses who undertake the examination.

On account of the large number of applicants all over the country, it is necessary to keep up a series of successive examinations in the field, and one or two will reach here to-day to help the members of the local commission.

"Baby's Got a Tooth."

That's the first real excitement. Then baby says "goo goo"—then "da da"—then baby creeps—then baby walks a step and falls down—then baby walks across the room—then baby falls downstairs—then baby runs away—then grows fat—has measles, whooping cough, croup, fever—then gets his first pair of pants—gets a bicycle—gets a girl—smokes a cigarette—and gets—well it depends a good deal on how his dad conducts himself what he does from that on. From that first pair of pants on to the time when he's a grandfather we can take good care of him so far as clothes go. Just now we are better prepared than ever before to take care of small boys of 3 years or more. We have a much handsomer line of Novelty Suits, suits that don't take much cloth, but lots of work to get up, than we have ever shown before. Suits in reefer styles $1.00 to $3.50. Sailor Suits $1.50 to $3.00. Novelty and Junior Suits at 75c to $2.50. There are quite a number of mothers, wives of hardworking husbands, that don't economize as they should, because it is so easy to save on children's clothes here, and they don't take advantage of it. You?

"I know what is the matter with me, but WHO can cure me."

STRICTURE.

It is a well-known fact deposit must be removed, and as I can do this, I lay claim to superiority over all other methods. It is a permanent cure any case of uncomplicated stricture without resorting to the use of knife, caustics, bougies, sounds or any other operation of any kind. To anyone not understanding how this is done, it will seem impossible; however, it is a fact.

My treatment of such a nature that it being the case, how can the cutting or rupturing of the stricture be a permanent cure? It cannot. The stricture is still there.

The ingenuity of the surgeon has been post and removing all adventitious tissue, which comes away in a sawdust-like form or in strips from half to several inches in length. Sometimes the whole stricture will come away in one piece. The treatment is easy to use—does not interfere with ordinary business, does not cause pain or inflammation, is not severe—and the patient can use it at home without exposure.

Many specimens of actual stricture can be seen at my office, 101 West 9th St., Kansas City, Mo. To successfully treat stricture, this place State your case and send stamp for circular.
